PRESBYTERIANS BUY

DECIDE ON SOUTHEAST CORNER OF MARYLAND AND WILSON FOR NEW CHURCH

At the Wednesday evening meeting of the congregation of the Glendale Presbyterian Church, the committee appointed to look up suitable sites for the proposed new church building submitted its report, in which several sites were suggested for the choice of the congregation. In the balloting which followed it became evident that the church desired a location as near the present geographical and civic center of the city as possible for the largest number of votes was cast for the acquirement of three lots on the southeast corner of Maryland and Wilson Avenues, and instructions to close the deal were given the committee which consisted of W. J. Clendenin and M. P. Harrison, representing the Session, James Cooper of the Board of Deacons, and T. W. Preston of the Board of Trustees of the Church.

The location chosen is in the very heart of a church center, there being so many edifices of this character on Wilson Avenue that it would not be unfitting to call it Church Street. On the southeast corner of Kenwood and Wilson is the First Methodist Church. A block away at Wilson and Louise is the First Baptist Church on the northwest corner. Soon there will be the First Presbyterian Church on the southeast corner, and on Central and Wilson Avenues is the First Congregational Church, soon to be rebuilt. But a short distance from Wilson on Isabel is the Seventh-day Adventist Church, now in process of rebuilding, and but a short block from the new house of worship will be the First Church of Christ Scientist on the corner of California and Maryland.

The next most popular church street appears to be Harvard, on which are located the First English Lutheran Church at the corner of Maryland Avenue, St. Mark's at Louise and Harvard, and the West Glendale Methodist at Pacific Avenue and Harvard. On Louise and Colorado is the Christian Church, which is about to rebuild, and on the corner of Louise and Lomita is the site of the proposed new Catholic Church. The needs of outlying districts are met by the Central Avenue Methodist Church at Central and Palmer, the Tropico Presbyterian Church at Central Avenue and Laurel Street, and the Casa Verdugo Methodist Church which is also planning to build anew.

MRS. WELLER SHOWERED

GIRLS OF PHILATHEA CLASS ENJOY NOVEL CAFETERIA SUPPER

Girls of the Philathea Class of the First Methodist Sunday School enlivened their regular meeting Saturday evening at the home of Miss Doris Ingledue on East Wilson Avenue by having a little cafeteria supper and party at which Mrs. Dorothy Lee Weller was guest of honor. The supper was the first event on the program and each girl was given a tray on which her supper was placed and a check as in an ordinary cafeteria. Mrs. Weller was made cashier, and as the girls appeared before her they handed her gifts instead of the money their checks were supposed to represent. It was a miscellaneous shower, and she was the recipient of some very nice remembrances. Between twenty-five and thirty young women were present. Following the supper a business session was held and then members enjoyed a social evening of games and music.

MASS MEETING ACTS

ADOPTS RECOMMENDATIONS OF HIGH SCHOOL SITE COMMITTEE

The gathering at the High School Friday evening more nearly fulfilled the description "mass meeting" than any that had previously taken place in connection with the High School site problem. The auditorium was practically filled to its uttermost recesses and representatives were there from all parts of the school district, evidencing great interest in the question in hand.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Chairman Young of Eagle Rock called the meeting to order. Reinforcing him upon the platform were members of the committee appointed by him to consider and recommend sites for the consideration of the meeting—Stephen Packer, J. E. Peters, Ralph Meeker, H. V. Henry, Mesdames A. A. Barton and Charles H. Toll.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary Irving H. Oliver and approved. The report of the committee of investigation was then read by its secretary, Mrs. A. A. Barton, who reviewed the action taken at the different meetings of the committee and gave its final recommendation that the trustees be instructed to call a bond election for $425,000, to be used for the erection of necessary new buildings and for the purchase of frontage on Brand Boulevard from Harvard Street south to Masonic Temple, a distance of 385 feet, and for the purchase of the block east of the present High School campus, bounded by Louise, Harvard, Kenwood and Colorado streets, at a cost of $116,000.

Owen Emery then moved that this mass meeting accept and adopt the report of the committee and that it direct the trustees to call a bond election within a reasonable time for the purpose of putting before the voters of the district the issue of voting bonds for the purchase of the property enumerated in the committee report and for the purpose of erecting

Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Marlenee of 301 South Central Avenue were host and hostess Friday evening at a pretty lavender and white dinner at which covers were laid for nine, which was followed by an evening of music in which other guests participated. The guest list of friends from Los Angeles and Glendale included the sister of the hostess, Miss Hope Armstrong of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Welcome, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Welcome, Mr. and Mrs. Natris, Miss Virginia Dudley, Clyde Welcome, Mr. and Mrs. Muff of Glendale and Mrs. Muff of Los Angeles.

WORLD TRAVELERS

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES TURCK HAVE PLEASURE IN ENTERTAINING DENVER FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turck of 1013 South Glendale Avenue have returned from a delightful four-day auto trip on which they took as guests Mr. and Mrs. Willis Marean of Denver, who are spending the winter in Southern California. Mr. Marean is a prominent architect who has designed a number of the large buildings in that state. They left Saturday and motored as far as San Capistrano, where they spent the night, attending church in the morning and having a visit with Father O'Sullivan, who was most cordial. They then motored to La Jolla, where they spent the night and had dinner with Edwin L. Sabin, the short story writer. The next night was spent at Oceanside. Next week Mr. and Mrs. Marean will be guests of the Turcks at the Mission Play at San Gabriel. It is a pleasure, Mrs. Turck says, to take them about because they are so delighted with everything. They are globe trotters, having been around the world more than once, but say they love Southern California better than almost any place they ever visited.

ACCEPTS POSITION IN SALT LAKE CITY

Gilbert A. Cowan left Glendale last evening for Salt Lake City, Utah, where he will be employed on the Morning Herald copy desk. He had been spending the holiday season with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Cowan, of 332 North Orange Street, following his return from Visalia, California, where he had held the position of managing editor of the Morning Delta of that city.

CONSTITUTIONAL PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

REPRESENTATIVE SABBATH INTRODUCES BILL TO REIMBURSE LIQUOR DEALERS FOR LOSSES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Prohibition Commissioner John F. Kramer predicted that wholesale arrests of boot-leggers in all parts of the country will occur soon as a first development in the enforcement of constitutional prohibition. He declared that thousands of detectives are at work now and that "we have planned quick measures to make the law effective."

He said the organization for enforcement is practically completed, and that the Department of Justice, Post Office Department and Internal Revenue Bureau will co-operate with the enforcement officers.

Representative Sabbath of Illinois today took the first step in Congress to remunerate the liquor dealers for their losses. He introduced a bill ordering the Internal Revenue Bureau to pay the brewers and distillers the actual cost of producing the stock now on hand and to refund the taxes paid on unsold liquors.

UNION OIL FIRE AT PEDRO

FIRE COMPANIES OF TWO CITIES AND 500 EMPLOYES FIGHT FLAMES WHICH DESTROY MUCH OIL

SAN PEDRO, Jan. 17.—Fire in the pumping plant of the Union Oil Company's refinery here this morning did thousands of dollars' worth of damage.

The fire started at 8 a. m. when a riveter who was working on the roof of the pumping plant dropped a red-hot rivet into a near-by oil sump. The oil caught fire, the flames spreading to the pumping plant. One main burst before the oil pipe lines could be cut off. The fire burned two hours before it was conquered. A tank containing 20,000 gallons of gasoline which was only 150 feet away did not explode although the flames shot almost to it. Several firemen were slightly hurt. Both the San Pedro and Wilmington fire departments and the five hundred employes of the Union Oil Company fought the flames. A quantity of machinery in addition to the oil burned and the damage is unestimated.

CITIZEN DISGUSTED

CRITICIZES CHAIRMAN OF MASS MEETING FOR PERMITTING PERSONALITIES IN DEBATE

Glendale, Cal., Jan. 17, 1920.

Editor Glendale Evening News:

After attending last night's meeting to hear the report of the committee appointed to select High School site, I went home thoroughly disgusted. I am somewhat used to such outbursts as occurred last night, but I am of the opinion that the meeting last night was the limit.

Our forefathers fought and gained for us the right of free speech, but in our own little city this right is denied us unless we desire to be publicly insulted, and no man may express his sentiments without fear of a personal attack. When enterprising and progressive business men are assailed and held up to ridicule for daring to express an opinion contrary to the opinions of certain members of this community, it is time for public sentiment to arouse itself and insist that all citizens have the right to express their honest convictions without fear of personal abuse.

Care should be taken in the selection of a chairman who shall be unprejudiced, and have sufficient backbone to insist that speakers confine themselves to the point at issue. I fear that the strangers within our gates who were unfortunate enough to have attended last night's meeting, left with a very poor opinion of the citizens of Glendale.

W. R. Phelon.

DEATH OF MICHAEL BECKER

Michael Becker, who for eight years has been a member of this community and whose home was at 1124 Melrose Avenue, Casa Verdugo, died Friday, January 16, 1920, at the Pacific Hospital following an operation for intestinal trouble. He was about forty years of age and leaves a widow and two young daughters, Dorothy and Bernardette Becker. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the Holy Family Catholic Church in this city.

FOOTHILL CLUB

The Foothill Club, which was entertained Friday by Mrs. Alfred Priest at her attractive home at 1422 North Central Avenue, spent a very pleasant afternoon over the card tables, refreshments being served at the close of play. Pink carnations were effectively used in the decoration of her home by the hostess. The club members, about twenty-four members, not all of whom were able to be present, the president, Mrs. William Porter, being one of those who were missed. The ladies entertained were: Mesdames Crawford, Tabour, Cutler, Dana, Ireland, Curtis, Toll, Oliver, E. K. and G. K. Barnes, Walter Eliott and Julius Kranz, and Misses Salisbury and Ellen B. Williams. An interesting feature of the afternoon was the reading of a letter from the French orphan, which the club is supporting, written by his mother.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE NOMINATED AT THURSDAY ASSEMBLY ELECTED TODAY

In an assembly of the Girls' League, held at the High School Thursday just after the luncheon period, it had been expected that a program furnished by women members of the faculty would be put on, but owing to a considerable amount of business to be transacted that pleasure was postponed. Instead there was considerable singing of popular songs, some saxaphone solos by Dorothy Baird, and the business session at which nominations for officers for the ensuing year were made as follows:

President, Harriet Barnes.

Vice President, Eva Green and Agnes Tupper.

Secretary, Helen Beach, Billie Gregg and Eva Green.

Treasurer, Mary Logan.

Voting on these officers took place this morning at 9:45 with the following results:

Vice President, Eva Green.

Secretary, Billie Gregg.

Harriet Barnes and Mary Logan succeeded themselves as president and treasurer, there being no competing candidates.

Mrs. Hartley Shaw addressed the assembly and asked for a donation for a young girls' home in which she is interested, and the league voted $7 from its treasury in response to her appeal.

EIGHTH GRADE DEBATE

PUPILS OF INTERMEDIATE GIVE DEMONSTRATION OF LOGICAL THINKING

An affair of importance and one which greatly astonished and delighted the adults assembled to enjoy it was the debate put on at the Intermediate School Friday afternoon between two teams of eighth grade pupils of the school, none of whom were over fourteen years of age. It was given under the supervision of their English teacher, Miss Gladys Sharpe, and was the last and most important of a series of nine debates.

The question was. "Resolved, that all studies in our school should be elective." The affirmative side was taken by the class known as B. 8 3, the negative side by the B. 8-1 class. The judges were: Miss Clara Midcalf, head of the Civics Department of the Intermediate; W. D. Root, debating coach of the High School, and Mrs. E. D. Yard.

The first speaker on the affirmative side was Thomas Wood, Jr., who defined the meaning of "elective," and then gave an outline of the points to be made by his colleagues.

The second speaker was Mary Stanley, who made the point that under the elective system easy work would not be elective.

The third speaker, Emma Laura Cooper, emphasized the point that many children attain such high pro-

Mrs. Pryor being a sister of the Hammond brothers. Mrs. Pryor is head of the Pryor Abstract Company, the largest institution of its kind in Duluth and this is his first visit to California. His wife has been here several times before. They have toured the state from San Francisco south to Los Angeles and are very much delighted with everything they have seen. Their friends here are trying to persuade them to remain and locate permanently, but they say that is a pleasure deferred, that they must return to Duluth but will probably spend winters here. Mr. Pryor had not seen his brothers-in-law for about thirty years, and they have many arrears of acquaintance to make up.

MRS. C. W. KIMBERLY RETURNS

Mrs. Charles Wallace Kimberly who left Glendale last September to spend the winter with relatives in the East, returned Thursday and with her a niece, Miss Nell Sanders, who will be her guest this winter. Mrs. Kimberly's home at 1645 South San Fernando Road was recently sold to Mr. and Mrs. Markland of Colorado, who are now her guests. Mrs. Kimberly will retain possession until some time in February and has not made definite plans as yet concerning her further movements. On her way to California from Little Rock, Ark., she visited her old neighbors and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Phillips and family, former residents of Glendale on San Fernando Road, who are now living in Fort Madison, Iowa. She found them all in good health and well contented with their present home.

Thursday afternoon two games were played on the Intermediate field. In the first one Broadway boys played against Intermediate "Angels" and the "Angels" won in a score of 14 to 1.

The other game was between Colorado Boulevard and Central Avenue players and Central Avenue won with a score of 20 to 0.

SIGN POSTS

ERECTED BY AUTO CLUB IN SO. CAL. MEASURE 99 MILES

There are ninety-nine tons of metal auto guide signs on the highways of Southern California covering an area of 70,399 square miles, according to a report just issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California for the year of 1919.

For the purpose of guiding resident and visiting motorists over the most remarkable road system in the world, this organization has erected a total of 66,133 enameled-metal signs, each weighing three pounds. If all the posts on which these signs were laid end to end, they would reach from Los Angeles to Santa Barbara, a distance of 99 miles, as the report of the club's sign-posting department shows that it has placed over 48,000 posts, each twelve feet in height.

There were 8,929 new signs erected on the roads of the southern part of the state alone in 1919, as no transcontinental work was undertaken by the organization during the year other than to make preparations for an unusual 1920 road-marking program which is outlined below. During the year just passed, the club set 4,200 new posts.

In the desert regions these posts are of metal because automobile parties thoughtless cut down wooden posts for firewood. The metal posts on the desert are anchored in the sand with heavy redwood blocks.

Of the total number of guide signs erected by the Auto Club, 6,219 have been placed in the desert or waste areas of this and adjacent states. These signs show the location of water-holes in which water is analyzed by club specialists and the information as to its availability is carried on the nearest sign.

Signs have been erected advising motorists when crossing the desert to telegraph to some garage ahead that they are starting on the trip and if not heard from within a certain time for that garage to send out searching parties. This feature alone, in warning, has saved many lives, report club officials.

The Southern California organization is the only service club in the world to operate four trucks every day in the year for the purpose of placing new signs and renewing old ones, in connection with two inspection cars. No signs are ever allowed to become weather-beaten. They are at once replaced, and the time worn sign is returned to headquarters. No attempt is made to repaint signs in the "field."

During 1919 the sign-posting trucks covered 65,904 miles of road in the performance of their duty. More than 38,000 miles were covered in taking notes for signs to be erected in 1920 and subsequently.

Here is what the Auto Club is going to do in 1920: It will re-sign the famous National Old Trails Transcontinental highway from Kansas City west to the southern part of the state, a distance of 2000 miles.

It will also re-signpost the Lincoln Highway and the Midland Trail from Omaha, Neb., to Southern California and also from Ely, Nevada, south.

From now on, all signs erected by the club will carry mileage directions. No motorist traveling the roads of Southern California need ever be in doubt as to where he is, or how far it is to where he is going.

ACCIDENTS INCREASE

DEATH RATE FROM AUTO SMASH UPS GROWING ALARMINGLY

The monthly vital statistics published by the New York state health commission show an increase in deaths from automobile accidents. In September there were 79 deaths from that cause. In October there were 128, which is 40 more than the usual monthly average.

No explanation for this increase is given. But the figures should make any community stop and think about its own accident rate. It is true that traffic is growing steadily heavier everywhere, and that there are more motor vehicles than ever before on the country highways and in the city streets. There have also been more public campaigns for "safety first." The National Safety Council has carried its educational work into every region. Men, women and children have had opportunities to see and hear and read about the cause of accidents and the proper ways to avoid them. Still people remain careless.

When it is reduced to its final cause, nearly every automobile accident is due to carelessness on somebody's part. Pedestrians sputter about the heedlessness of auto drivers, while they continue to ignore traffic regulations for crossing streets. Many an autoist leaves it to the other driver to be cautious while he goes ahead at his favorite reckless rate. There will be increases in accident rates, no matter how much effort is put forth by authorities, until individuals take it upon themselves to be careful for themselves.

Our Judgment Confirmed

When we chose to represent the Studebaker Car, the Reo Speed Wagon and the Moreland Truck we did so after earnest consideration and careful comparison with other cars and trucks in their class. We refused to go on the market with any car or truck that we didn't feel sure was the best to be had for the money. We were after business but we also wanted that satisfaction that comes from having given a customer a square deal. We wanted our salesmen to have a reason to be enthusiastic about the cars we asked them to sell.

That is how we came to represent these three cars and we can say without boasting that not a day passes but our judgment is confirmed by what we see and what others tell us of the performance of these cars.

The Studebaker

Is entirely set apart and above other cars within its price range in every point by which a pleasure car is judged. Its grace of line, its mechanical perfection and its wonderful performance and endurance make it the most talked of car in America today.

The Moreland Truck

This distillate truck is a California-made truck. We love to sell it because it was made to meet western needs. Our territory for this truck reaches from the northern boundary of the city of Los Angeles to Kern county and from the Arroyo Seco on the east to Ventura county on the west. From all parts of this territory comes the confirmation of our belief that the Moreland is the best truck made in its class.

The Reo Speed Wagon

A light weight truck that is a money saver for the farmer and the merchant. Its small operating cost and its great speed are its distinguishing features and make it very economical for deliveries up to 3000 pounds.

LARGER JAIL SENTENCES

LENIENCY TOWARD AUTO THIEVES IS GREATLY DEPLORED

Out of fifty-six auto thieves arrested in Los Angeles during 1919, only fifteen received penitentiary sentences of one year or more, while twelve were put on probation and three were released.

This leniency on the part of the courts has caused the Automobile Club of Southern California to institute a movement to secure heavier jail sentences for convicted auto thieves and a consequent curbing of an alarming theft record. Approximately $2,000,000 worth of automobiles were stolen in Los Angeles during the past year, according to the Auto Club's theft bureau, and almost $500,000 worth of these were lost forever.

The Prest-O-Lite Green Seal Battery is like the shell—powerless, lifeless, inanimate until the energy-giving acids are added, when instantaneously it leaps into life and is ready for service.

These vitalizing chemicals and acids are not put into your Prest-O-Lite battery until the battery is placed in your car. In this way you get a battery that is not three to six months "worn out" when you buy it. When you buy a Prest-O-Lite Green Seal, you get a battery that is made the day it begins to work for you in your car.

Ford Starters Now Available

Many Ford cars have been sold recently which were built to have the self-starter installed when they were available.

We now have several thousand of these starters here and recent purchasers of Ford cars can now have the starters installed by their Ford dealer any time they desire.

It is not an experiment but a thoroughly practical, dependable, guaranteed electric starter built by the Ford Motor Company with the same honest care and precision that has made the Ford car the most popular car in the world.

New Ford cars may be purchased with or without the starter as you prefer.

A GOOD OMEN

BLIX-HUNT COMPANY ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT PREST-O-LITE

The sensation caused by the introduction of the Prest-O-Lite Green Seal battery, not only in this city but all over the country is regarded as a good omen by the Blix-Hunt Co. local representatives of the Prest-O-Lite Company, whose products they handle here. A hearty response was expected to this radically new type of battery, but unprecedented demand that has been created by them is far in excess to the predictions of even its most optimistic boosters.

The principal of the Green Seal battery is said to be as far in advance of the present day type of battery as the acetylene tanks, also invented by the Prest-O-Lite Company, were over the old carbide lamps in the early days of motoring. The principal of this new battery is logical and practical in practice as well as in theory. For years the battery engineers of the Prest-O-Lite laboratories have been wrestling with the problem which has perplexed automobile users ever since cars became electrically-equipped cars, that is the elimination of the deteriorating effects of the acids and chemicals which are a necessary part of any battery, while en route to the retail dealers and while on his shelves. Formerly retail-purchased batteries were three to six months worn out when delivered to the consumer as the acids and chemicals had been at work since the day the battery left the factory. In order to avoid this, the Prest-O-Lite engineers hit upon the happy plan of shipping their batteries "green," that is, without these fluids having been injected. Not until the battery is put in the purchasers' car are they installed which doubles the battery-life of his machine. It is the common consensus of opinion among local motorists that this type of battery will eventually supplant the now-antiquated batteries on the market as the acetylene tank did the carbide lamp.

This country would get along better just now if everybody would think less about "rights" and more about "duties."

REMARKABLE TRIP

$127.37 EXPENSE ACCOUNT FOR 9,000 MILE TRIP FOR SIX

No greater demonstration need be given that the automobile will soon replace the railways in the United States than the trip which included Los Angeles in its list of 296 towns and cities, and which has just been completed by Mr. and Mrs. R. G. McIntosh, their children, their married daughter, Mrs. L. N. Armstrong and her husband, according to B. L. Graves, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Ford Motor Company.

Word of the completion of the trip was received at the local branch last week. The party visited various Ford agencies in Los Angeles as they passed through this city. The trip is not only remarkable because of its length and the various places visited as well as the different roads negotiated, but it establishes a record inasmuch as the total cost for the transportation of six people, as well as all camping equipment and other necessaries, cost the tourists just $127.37 for the entire 9000 mile trip. The cost budget includes gasoline, oil and all repairs on the machine.

On July 7, 1919, the party loaded a Ford truck—not a touring car—with a tent, frying pans, fishing tackles and sundry camping equipment, climbed to their seats and soon left behind their home town, Ames, Ia.

The trip they had planned led through Sioux City, Rapid City, Wind Cave, Hot Springs, Yellowstone National Park and down the Pacific coast. It included 296 towns and cities and brought a total mileage of 9000 miles.

Despite difficulties of the trip and the consequent expectation of a number of mishaps, there were none, and but few repairs were necessary. The trip brought so few repairs in fact that expenses for gasoline, oil and repairs amounted to only $127.37, averaging practically 21 miles to the gallon of gas.

DARING WOMEN

SHOWN DRIVING S X ACROSS MOJAVE DESERT AT CHAMBERS & FELTS SHOWROOM

"Buck-a-roo-ing" a motor car through the sand dunes and rocks of the Mojave Desert, as shown by the "Trail of the Arrow" motion pictures at Essex agency last night, is one of the most thrilling scenes of motor car driving ever shown to the public of Southern California. This was evidenced by the increasing crowds who accepted the invitation of Chambers & Felts to see this daring drive at 246 South Brand Boulevard where the pictures have been shown.

From the first moment that the beam of light comes from the projecting room, this picture is one continuous thrill until the final scene where the S X Arrow catapaults backward down the 85 per cent slope and finally lands at the bottom of the Devil's Punch Bowl, two minutes before the time limit in the wager of $1,000, which was won by the two young girls who made the daring drive.

Never before has anything like it been attempted in this country, and the hundreds who have seen "The Trail of the Arrow" this week at the salesrooms of Chambers & Felts realize the terrific punishment the S X motor car can stand. The thriling drive is such an evidence of dependable construction that Essex Motor cars at once assume leadership in power, performance and economy of operation. Mr. Chambers and Mr. Felts are receiving the congratulations of their friends, not only at the showing of these pictures, but at the fact that they have the agency for such a dependable and popular car.

Personals

Miss Helen Delaine spent the week end as the guest of Miss Ruth Roland, moving picture star.

Mrs. Mary E. Dell of 928 North Louise Street, who is census enumerator for Glendale Precincts 1, 2 and 10, will be at home from 2 until 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon to enumerate any one who have not yet been enumerated in her district.

Mrs. L. M. West—better known to her friends as Mrs. Evelyn Kent West, who has had quite a siege of illness which has kept her in a hospital or a sanitorium for a considerable portion of the time during the last four months, is now getting up from pneumonia and hopes her troubles in the health line are over.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Spencer of West Broadway are leaving today for their beach home at Manhattan, where they plan to spend a month or six weeks. They recently sold their home at 431 West Broadway and for the past few weeks have been living in a garage. On their return from Manhattan they will build a new home on property adjoining the old one at 433 West Broadway.

Mrs. Laura Weaver of 402 East Harvard Street will entertain for the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Will Fountain of Elkhorn, Wis., who are spending the winter in Los Angeles. She will also entertain Mrs. Lauderdale, formerly of Boulder, Colo., who expects to locate in California. Mrs. Weaver is looking forward to the arrival of her brother and his wife who are now en route from Guatemala and who she expects will become permanent residents of Southern California.

Mrs. McSpadden of 216 Arden Avenue is occupying the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Holland at 209 Arden Avenue during their absence in the East and taking care of their young son. Mr. Holland is a senior partner in the Holland-Worley Rug Company of Los Angeles. Letters received from them while en route and dated San Francisco indicated they were having a very pleasant trip. They will go as far east as Chicago and will be gone a month or six weeks.

Prof. E. S. Bollinger, brother of Mrs. W. J. Hibbert of 1504 South Brand Boulevard, and Mrs. Bollinger, arrived yesterday from Battle Creek, Mich. Prof. Bollinger formerly lived in "Tropico" but went to Michigan to try the effect of a colder climate because of asthma, to which he was subject. While recuperating he took up carpentering and has become a first class contractor, Mrs. Hibbert says. He has come to look over the situation in Glendale with a view to entering into the contracting business here.

Among those who attended the Prohibition Victory Jubilee at the State W. C. T. U. headquarters in Los Angeles yesterday were: Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Smart, Rev. and Mrs. Yoeman, Mr. and Mrs. Dick, Mrs. R. W. Mottern, Mrs. O. S. Palmer, Mrs. Louise Morton, Mrs. I. A. Ford, Mrs. Effie Weien, Mrs. Cookman, of the local W. C. T. U. Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, Superintendent of the Los Angeles city schools, who is a member of the organization, made the principal address. Many more Glendalians were present at the big celebration at Trinity church in the evening when J. Barleycorn, whose name was changed from John to Judas, was buried deep.

MISS EVARTS' CENSUS TERRITORY

Miss Evarts of 163 South Central Avenue is one of the census enumerators having charge of precincts 8 and 9. Precinct 8 is bounded by a line beginning at Central Avenue, east on California to Louise, south on Louise to Harvard, west on Harvard to Brand Boulevard, north on Brand to Broadway, west on Broadway to Central, north on Central to California.

Precinct 9, beginning at Central, east on Doran to Geneva, south on Geneva to Lexington, west on Lexington to Louise, south on Louise to California, west on California to Central, north on Central to Doran.

Miss Evarts is anxious to get the count of every family in her territory.

POLICE ANNALS

Rumors were circulating yesterday about an accident to a boy on a bicycle who was said to have collided with an automobile on Broadway near Glendale about 4:30 p. m. on Thursday with the result of a broken wheel and hurt arm, but the police department has no record nor do business people of the locality have definite information. A little later in the evening Fred Wilkinson, riding a bicycle, is said to have run into an auto driven by a man named Smith, with minor injury to his bicycle, but none that is serious to himself.

The nearest approach to tragedy on today's police annals is the record of the death of an unknown canine described as "just dog," which was run over by an automobile near the junction of Broadway and Glendale. The remains were interred at the pound, without obsequies.

Get This!

Since the price of everything you buy nowadays is appreciated about 100%, the dollar is worth only 50 cents. That's clear, isn't it?

If then, with this 50 cent dollar you can buy a sure estate to be delivered to your family at your death, there is a strong probability that by the time that occurs the purchasing value of the dollar will be at or near 100 cents. Life-insurance is about the only thing on Earth that has not risen in price. You can buy it as low as you ever could.

If that estate is to be delivered to you, yourself, at a DEFINITE time, it is even more valuable. A Provident Endowment is just such an estate. "There is no substitute."

THE PLAYERS' CLUB

An open meeting of "The Players' Club of Glendale" took place last Wednesday evening in the Guild room of St. Mark's Church. Mr. D. Lamont Greene, president, was chairman of the evening, other officers present being Miss Nellie Mai Williams, vice president, Miss Ina Whitaker corresponding secretary, and Mr. David N. Wemyss, recording secretary. In the absence of the treasurer, Miss Gertrude Champlain, Mr. Greene read the the financial report of the "Twelfth Night Revels" dance, which was voted by all a decided success in every way. Other plans for the club were then discussed and arrangements made for an evening of dancing and games to be given in the near future. Ladies to act on various committees for this include Mrs. Leroy Bosserman, Mrs. DavidN. Wemyss, Mrs. Harry Peterson, Mrs. R. E. Downing, Mrs. Eustace Young, Mrs. Helen Campbell and Miss Ellen Williams. Mrs. Greene then appointed Miss Nellie Mai Williams as chairman of the Dramatic Section and Miss Ina Whitaker chairman of the Musical Section, being himself unanimously acclaimed chairman of the Social Section. There was a good attendance. Several new members were enrolled, and a number of applications to join the club were received.

After such prolonged labor, what will the civil service commission bring forth in the way of revised rules? Unless the result is remarkable, it will suggest the fable of the mountain and the mouse.

NATIONAL GUARDS

EFFORT TO BE MADE TO ORGANIZE COMPANY IN RESPONSE TO REQUEST

Honorable Frank Muhleman,
Mayor, City of Glendale,
Glendale, California.

My Dear Mayor Muhleman:

The Federal Government has recently apportioned to the states the particular National Guard units the various states are expected to establish.

California has had assigned to it the organization of units which total 3584 National Guardsmen. This number will later be greatly increased.

Legislation is now pending before Congress which provides the National Guard shall be the second line of defense, and which will give to the organization greater federal aid than it has ever received in the past. We are assured that this will give us a better and more efficient National Guard. The increased efficiency means a better training for the youth who desire to enter the state's military establishment.

A National Guard unit has always proved an asset to a community. It has been noticeable in the past that the best National Guard companies have been maintained in the communities which gave unreservedly of their moral support. A community must give its moral support, and the business men encourage their employes to join the National Guard if the greatest results be obtained.

A National Guard company does not entail any financial obligation upon a city. The armory expenses are paid by the state, and when the state law is amended to comply with the present federal regulations, the National Guardsmen will receive compensation for the time spent in drill, which is for the enlisted men, twenty-five per cent of the pay received by regular army men.

The recent emergency has impressed rather forcibly upon all of us the advantage of having a well-trained military organization close to our homes—an organization composed of youths of our own kind—our own boys and our neighbor's—those who have the stuff within them to make protectors of American homes and ideals.

These are the boys to compose our California National Guard, and the state and nation look to you to rouse the business men of your community to encourage their sons and their employes to rally NOW to the call for men, to give California first place in the reorganization of the National Guard of the country—to give a local unit a place within the city's organizations commensurate with the splendid spirit of citizenship which prompts a young man to join an organization of this type.

This office has written to the mayor, the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion Post in each city in California which has a population considered sufficiently large to support a National Guard company, and the units will be assigned to the cities in accordance with the date upon which the request to organize is received in this office, due and full consideration being given to the pledge for moral support and encouragement which the business men are willing to register in their application for a suit.

Should you desire to call a meeting of your citizens for the purpose of promoting a branch of the state's military establishment in your city, I shall be very glad to send immediately full information concerning the organization of a unit, and, if you desire, I will send an officer to attend such a meeting.

Will you let me hear from you regarding the situation in your city within the next week or ten days?

Cordially yours,
J. J. Borree,
Brig. Gen., Cal., N. G.,
The Adjutant General.

Jan. 14, 1920.

Mayor Muhleman is heartily in accord with the suggestions outlined above and is ready to co-operate with any who wish to take the initiative step.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A. M. WATSON

Friends of Albert Machin Watson, who for seventeen years has been deputy county clerk of Los Angeles County, and whose home was at the corner of Brand and Palmer avenues, this city, were inexpressibly shocked when the word circulated that he had been found dead this morning, January 17th, at 4 o'clock. He went to bed last night apparently in perfect health, and death came to him while he slept. He leaves a widow, who is prostrated by the sad event, a daughter, Mrs. Enid Robinson, and two little grandchildren. No arrangements have yet been made for funeral services.

DEATH OF ELIZABETH V. ROBERTS

Elizabeth V. Roberts, aged twenty-one years, who for the past six months has resided in Glendale Heights, passed away Friday evening, January 16th. Funeral services, which will be strictly private, will be held at the Pulliam & Kiefer Undertaking parlors Sunday afternoon.

THE CHARMED LIFE

Hubert Frederick, of Bigelow, Ark., is probably the most reconstructed young fellow in the United States. At any rate, he has the record of eleven surgical operations in his brief life of sixteen years. Here are some of the high spots in his accident record:

He started when he was two years old, falling into a plan of boiling water and badly burning his arms. When he was four, some older children, tossing him about, dropped him and broke his collar bone. At seven he fell off a horse and the horse stepped on his right ankle, crushing it. Soon afterward he was taken with appendicitis, and had two operations. Later, in a tree-climbing contest, he came down the quickest way, breaking his collar bone again. Recovering from that he joined in "belling" a newly married couple, and the bride hit him with a teacup, necessitating 16 stitches to close the wound. He got a job in a mill, and had his left ankle crushed by a broken cable, and had to have the bones carpentered. A year ago he fell from a pecan tree and broke an arm, and had it badly set, and had to have it broken and re-set. Finally a week or two ago, he got mixed up in an engine explosion and had his skull fractured, requiring elaborate surgical repair.

"That boy bears a charmed life," says his father proudly.

The father is certainly an optimist. Most people would prefer life without that kind of "charm." Still, there is ground for argument over the question. Which is really the lucky person—the one that never has any mishaps, or the one that has all sorts of mishaps, and escapes from them?

Members of the XVI Club as well as her many friends outside that organization, will be pleased to learn that Miss Edna Klimcke has found a neat little one hundred and twenty-five-dollar a month situation in San Francisco with the Aetna Co.

ficiency in some lines that they should not be required to take that work.

The fourth speaker, Norman Keller, declared that children of the seventh and eighth grades should be allowed to specialize because it would lessen the "mortality in education" in the High School (the dropping out of pupils); that such a large percentage do not get into the High School at all, that they should be allowed to specialize on particular lines of work before they finish the eighth grade.

The fifth speaker, Dora Landis, made the point that better work is done under the elective system and proved it by quoting from the supervisors who now have elective work in charge.

On the negative side the first speaker was Robert Frazee, who gave an outline of the aims of education under four headings, viz., aims for life, aims for life work, aims for further education, aims for citizenship. He then took up "aims for life" and mentioned different subjects necessary for making any headway in life which should be required, and reinforced his assertions by quotations from Mark Keppel, County Superintendent of Schools.

The second negative speaker was Carlton Lawson, who considered the aims for life work, and mentioned in particular the industries and professions. He handed to the affirmative team a list of subjects which he challenged them to prove that any one in any walk of life could get along without.

The next speaker was Lucile Allen, who dwelt on the "aims for further education," and mentioned the requirements of schools of higher education, quoting Dr. Allen of Occidental College to sustain her point.

Margaret Longley was the next speaker who specialized on "Aims for Citizenship." The Bolsheviki and I. W. W.s were mentioned by her as examples of people who oppose educational requirements.

The last speaker, Arlin McCormack, gave a general summary of the negative arguments and made a negative speech calculated to bring all the points in review before the judges for the last time.

The negative rebuttal, which came first, was made by the first of the negative speakers, Robert Frazee, who made an excellent extemporaneous speech.

Rebuttal by the affirmative side was presented by its first speaker, Thomas Wood, Jr., and his speech was also very good, but he failed to make answer to the challenge in the list of subjects handed his team by Carlton Lawson.

In announcing their decision the judges stated that they had awarded highest rank on delivery to the affirmative team, but on arguments their decision was unanimously in favor of the negative team.

The affirmatives were coached by Mr. Blanford and the negatives by Mr. Hockett.

At the close of the debate and after the decision of the judges had been announced, Miss Sharpe presented to Mr. White as head of the school a beautiful debating banner in the school colors, of blue satin with gold lettering and fringe. She explained that it was the gift of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Hough, Jr., of New York City. Mr. Hough is the assistant city editor of the New York World, and Mrs. Hough is a literary woman. They have been very much interested in the accounts of the series of debates which Miss Sharpe has given them and asked the privilege of presenting to the school the banner mentioned. It came as a complete surprise and crown to the events of the aftenoon. Mr. White in his turn presented the banner to the winning team, to the enthusiastic applause on the part of the proud school.

W. D. Root complimented the two teams highly on their excellent work and assured them of the welcome they would receive in his department when they enter the High School. Those who have participated in the series of debates have become so interested that they declare they will continue the work when they "go up higher."

Miss Sharpe, their teacher in English, feels rewarded for her effort to give these boys and girls a start in public speaking, and in thinking on their feat. She is justly proud of the showing they have made.

Even our city commissioners could be unanimous on the proposition to increase the size of boxes in which strawberries are sold.

Eight hundred New York restaurants decided to increase their food prices 10 per cent on January 1, on account of diminished profits due to prohibition. The majority of these restaurants, as it happens, never sold any liquor; but they're not going to let a trivial fact like that interfere with a perfectly good excuse for jacking prices up a little higher.

buildings, said bond issue to be approximately $425,000.

Mr. Emery then recited the part he and his fellow students had taken when the bond issue was voted to remove the High School from the corner of Broadway and Brand to its present site, and his personal interest in retaining its present site, and his disposition to work for a bond issue to carry out the recommendations of the committee.

Mr. Emery's speech was applauded and his motion promptly seconded. It was about to be put by the chairman when there was a protest that opportunity should be given for debate. It was then thrown open and various phases of the proposition were set forth by those who favored and those who opposed the proposed site. Speakers who opposed the motion and who warned the audience that such a bond proposition would probably be defeated were Charles Ingledue, C. L. Peckham, Jesse Smith, Charles Chandler, G. B. Woodberry, and A. T. Cowan. E. U. Emery defended the proposition, saying that in all his travels he had never seen high school buildings more centrally nor attractively located than are the High School buildings of Glendale, and in his opinion an auditorium on Brand would enhance the value of other property. Colonel Thornton also indorsed the committee recommendation.

Meanwhile there had been many issues introduced by speakers quite beside the mark and Alexander Mitchell made a plea that the meeting quit "chewing the rag" and get down to business. Charles Chandler moved to amend the original motion by striking out the words "the purchase of frontage on Brand Boulevard." Jesse Smith seconded the amendment and the discussion proceeded, degenerating into some unpleasant personalities which so disgusted a portion of the audience that it "gathered up its doll rags" and went home. The remaining portion of the audience then clamored for "the question" and Chairman Young put the amendment, which was lost, and then the original question which carried by a large vote. By that time it was nearly 11 o'clock, and a motion to adjourn was promptly seconded and carried.

THRIFT WEEK

That Glendale residents may have a clear understanding of the purpose of "Thrift Week" which—at the request of the government—will be observed all over the United States from the 17th to the 25th of January, the following extract from one of the circulars of information is given by Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the local chapter:

"One of the great lessons which this country learned from war was Conservation. The government's thrift campaign has been instituted with the object of urging the people to refrain from abandoning the principles of economy and thrift which were so splendidly practiced during the war and which no less than formerly would be of tremendous benefit to us as individuals and as a nation.

"Thrift does not mean stinginess. It means saving where spending is useless and utilizing useful materials which would otherwise be thrown away. It means prevention of waste, it means salvage and saving.

In compliance with the government's request the Red Cross will make a special effort to collect salvage from January 17th to January 25th, inclusive. All persons can greatly assist by sending their salvage to the Red Cross Shop at 142 North Brand Boulevard, also by tying papers in bundles. Will those wishing to assist in the drive with machines kindly be at the Shop Saturday morning at 9 o'clock? All citizens are requested to assist. The public is reminded that half the proceeds of salvage and Shop go to our local Welfare Bureau, the rest to the support of the Red Cross Home Service and other much needed work.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett,
Chairman.

Another cabinet officer is going to quit because he "can't live on his salary." If cabinet members were let in on the Congressional mileage graft, and allowed to draw 20 cents a mile for trips back home two or three times a year while they remained in Washington, maybe they could make both ends meet.

TAKE THEIR REST ON FLOOR

In the home of a Russian peasant Denis Garstin discovered the great bed, according to the Youth's Companion.

The room, says Mr. Garstin, was small, scrupulously tidy and covered with ornaments. The walls were entirely hidden with ikons—some 30 of them—sacred pictures, cheap lithographs of the czar, czarina and their children, calendars decorated with saints and lovers, and crude photographs of their own family taken at a fair. But by far the most imposing article, dominating over all in the room and insisting on all observance, was the bed.

It was a massive creation in itself, made still more imposing by layer on layer of bedding and mattresses and pillows reaching high up the wall and covered with black and red embroidered counterpanes. It was a monument of Russian peasant respectability rather than a suggestion of any repose.

zI was marveling at it when the baba returned, laden with thick potato pastries and wine and fruit. We sat down to eat and my companion explained who we were and gave the messages. The old women nearly embraced us in her effusive welcoming. A boy was sent to call in the husband, who was out on the hillside gathering fagots. A little girl went toddling down the village to round up all the relatives she could find, and soon we were the center of a crowd of rough peasants, who tried to cover their shyness by pressing us continually to eat.

The husband, a shock-headed old peasant, came last. His wife poured out all the news to him, referring every moment to us for confirmation of each detail, and whenever we said "truly" to her remarks he turned his hat round in his hands and said: "Thank God, but eat and drink some more."

"You have a very fine house," I said to him. He stared at me, puzzled by unusual "you."

"Yes," he said finally, struggling into the plural, "we have. Tell Lukyan he must come to visit us with every one. There is much room."

"But only one bed?" I said.

Again I puzzled him. "Yes," he said, "there is a bed, of course."

My companion nudged me. "No one sleeps in a bed," he whispered.

The baba, glad of any reference to that piece of furniture, had stripped off the covering. "See," she said, "one, two, three, four—15 mattresses. That is enough for every one, is it not?"

"They all sleep on the floor," said my companion. "My grandfather used to, too, when he was staying in the country."
